

Kang Scholarship

Background

- Most of all, I am really honored to serve KIMEP University and our students.
- Throughout my academic career, I have made donations several times to educational institutions in Korea, and planned to do the same for KIMEP University. Coming to KIMEP four months ago, I now feel that I have fully settled in. It is time to materialize my wish.
- I was born as the first child of my mother whose family name is Kang. But in reality, I was her fourth child – she lost three babies before me. My mother has always done her utmost to love me. That is why, as a small token of my gratitude, I use my surname as Park-Kang. To honor my mother's love, I want to establish scholarship programs under her and my name.

Fund

- 16,500,000 tenge = 9,000,000 per year (to be gradually increased) + 7,500,000 (2025-2026)

- To establish the most student-centered scholarship in the world in order to inform the international community of KIMEP's core value and its strength, thereby further consolidating KIMEP's position as a world-class and unique institution. For example, among three members of the selection committee, two are KIMEP students.

Kang Scholarship DPRK (KSD)

1) Work requested by the Center

- Assistance in disseminating the Center-relevant information.
- Tasks related to the Center's library.
- Tasks requested by members of the Center.
- Other tasks related to the Center in general.

2) An article as a sole author or co-author

- Basic training: providing a feedback on Dr. Chan Young Bang's book.
- Publication of an article in preferred outlets by recipients or recommended outlets by the moderator. Potential outlets include KIMEP Times, KIMEP Voice or any other KIMEP-related publication platforms. Ideally speaking, student-oriented academic journals would be appropriate: for example, Journal of Student Research, Inquiries, Cambridge Journal of Political Affairs, Chicago Journal of Foreign Policy, Critique, and Butler Journal of Undergraduate Research. It can be a single-authored paper or co-authored paper.
- As a customary, scholarship recipients need to acknowledge Kang Scholarship in their publications.
- Opportunity to publish with the Principal Investigator of the DPRK Center and moderator.

3) Korean language

- To become an expert on North Korea, one should know the Korean language. Otherwise, it would be difficult to read North Korean materials and communicate with Korean people.
- Korean competency does NOT guarantee sound and rigorous research – constant training is needed. One can conduct research on North Korea without Korean competency. The moderator has encountered such cases numerous times. While very well-intentioned, their analysis and engagement are rather limited.
- Scholarship recipients should NOT follow this step. Thus, recipients must include the language section in their planning and final reports submitted to the moderator (Dr. Kang).
- For instance, it is strongly encouraged to take Korean courses offered at KIMEP (NOT mandatory). The courses include Beginner, Elementary, Intermediate, and Advanced Korean.

- Or it is strongly encouraged to join the Korean Speaking Club at KIMEP (NOT mandatory). The meetings usually take place at the Korean Library (Dostyk 207), 4 pm on Friday.
- Apart from that, the moderator will check the relevant progress on a regular basis by initiating conversations in Korean and instructing Korean translations, among others.

Kang Scholarship AIR (KSA)

1) A targeted GPA that students set themselves

- There is NO fixed GPA requirement. If recipients get a targeted GPA that they set themselves, the task is completed.

2) An article as a sole author

- The focus of an article should be on how recipients benefit from Kang Scholarship. Potential outlets include KIMEP Times, KIMEP Voice or any other KIMEP-related publication platforms.

- An exchange student is expected to perform their duties at a partner university in an honorable and proactive manner.
